

“Roberts does not just give AMD patients and those who care for them all the facts and resources they need, in a highly readable and often entertaining form. By his own example he also shows them that, no matter how bitter the lemons of the diagnosis, they too can make lemonade by becoming patient-experts themselves.”

—Gislin Dagnelie, PhD, Lions Vision Research & Rehabilitation Center, Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine

“This book...provides a wealth of empowering knowledge, important information, perceptive observations, compelling stories and practical suggestions from patients and professionals alike.”

—from the foreword by Lylas G. Mogk, MD, Medical Director of the Henry Ford Health System Visual Rehabilitation and Research Center

An Indispensable Book for Everyone Adjusting to Life with Low Vision

The leading cause of severe visual impairment in people over 50, age-related macular degeneration affects 15 million people, with an additional 2 million diagnosed annually. From the moment of his own diagnosis, educator and musician, Daniel Roberts made it his mission to provide the most up-to-date information about AMD through his website at www.mdsupport.org. Now, as a “patient-expert,” Roberts provides crucial information for everyone who wants to be an informed, active participant in the management of their condition. Covering the latest research as well as giving advice about daily concerns, The First Year®—Age-Related Macular Degeneration provides information on:

- Strategies for slowing AMD progression
- The most up-to-date research
- Treatment options
- Low vision devices, technology and rehabilitation
- Driving, traveling, and other lifestyle issues

Set in larger type for easier reading, The First Year®—Age-Related Macular Degeneration includes a glossary of ophthalmic terms; a comprehensive reference section of more than 100 resources for low-vision devices, audio books, research publications, financial assistance, local and national organizations; and first-hand accounts of living well with AMD.

DANIEL L. ROBERTS, a visually-impaired educator and musician, has devoted the past twelve years to researching and helping others with age-related macular degeneration. The recipient of the 2004 Distinguished Service Award presented by the American Optometric Association Low Vision Rehabilitation Section, he lives in Grandview, Missouri.
